

5-10 GEOLOGICALLY ACTIVE
11th IAEg Congress, Auckland,
SEPTEMBER 2010 New Zealand, 2010

It is now just 30 days until the close of super earlybird registrations for the 11th IAEg Congress at SkyCity Convention Centre, Auckland, New Zealand from 5 – 10 September 2010!

There has been a HUGE response to the call for abstracts and papers, with over 900 abstracts and almost 600 papers received.

With this level of participation, the Congress is destined to be an event not to be missed. The Congress brings together a unique mix of leading international practitioners in the engineering geology, geotechnical and risk management fields. The themes of iaeg2010 investigate the continuum between engineering geology and geotechnical engineering and its application, bridging the gap between theory and practise, changing the lives of real people around the world.

Listen to and discuss state-of-the-art practice in these fields, upskill on the latest research and its applications, and learn from application of different practices in international case studies.

There will be a dedicated Young Professionals programme, a Congress dinner unlike any other, local and national field trips and networking with your peers and colleagues.

Don't forget, the cheaper earlybird registration closes on 31 March – in just 30 days. Saving you $400 NZ on the full registration cost, the super earlybird is well worth it! (Companies may take advantage of the super earlybird rate by making group registrations of 5 or more delegates and confirming the names of the delegates at a later date prior to 31 July).
